

Newsroom Solutions

December 7, 2009

(Washington, DC) -- Missouri Congressman Russ Carnahan has introduced the Green Infrastructure for Clean Water Act of 2009 saying it could create green jobs and help protect the environment.

The congressman says he'll be following meetings taking place this week in St. Louis.

The bill is expected to be referred to the House Transportation and Infrastructure Water Resources & Environment Subcommittee as well as the House Science and Technology Committee on which Edwards and Carnahan serve.

Copyright 2009 © VERTEXNews/Newsroom Solutions. All rights reserved.